

I am writing in regards to the LPFM / radio translators issue. Our family enjoys listening to our local KLove / Air One radio stations and we support them financially. We are encouraged by the variety of the music offerings which we do not receive from other local radio stations. I also believe that the Klove / Air One stations bring encouragement to the community and they also work throughout the community in charities and ministries that help the people of San Diego. What "normal" big radio station does that? I believe that keeping them on the air through their current frequencies is in the public interest because they are a positive force in this area. We respectfully ask you to not allow the new LPFM stations to knock them off the air. Thank you.
